Press Release

November 20,

Compliance of Comprehensive Peace Accord urged

Today, the Comprehensive Peace Accord (CPA) has completed its 7th year since its landmark signing upon the conclusion of decade long armed conflict in the country and yet there are many human rights related issues awaiting their meaningful address. In this regard, enthusiastic accomplishment of the 2nd Constituent Assembly election held on November 19th, 2013 has sent across a ray of hope among all the Nepalese citizens. The Commission is confident about the making of human rights friendly constitution via Constituent Assembly leading to full respect towards human rights in the country.

Despite the fact the CPA signed though the Interim Constitution of Nepal – 2007 and the provisions laid out therein has been materialized with the integration of Maoist combatants of the then CPN Maoists into Nepal Army, the incidents related to the transitional justice such as killing, torture and enforced disappearance have not been addressed effectively.

The Office of the Commission, therefore, urges all concerned parties to address the issues related to the transitional justice with priority to garner respect towards human rights of the conflict victims through the would-be framed constitution as per the spirit and values of the CPA.
